

EMPLOYABILITY SKILLS

Attendance

Your Timeliness has an impact on you and everyone around you.

Being On Time impacts you mentally and physically in positive ways.

Being On Time impacts your coworkers/customers with dependability.

Being On Time shows your employer that you are here and responsible to get your job done.

Being On Time impacts your work performance when possibility of job promotion is available.

Being On Time is a marketable soft skill that you can present on your resume.

What are the consequences of “being late” to you, co-workers, your boss, and your future?